Jesus of Nazareth

First century of our era

The Christian Canon

It's made up of 27 writings known with the name of New Testament (by opposition of the Jewish Tanakh or Old Testament): four Gospels (Mathew, Mark, Luke, and John), Acts of the Apostles (attributed to the editor of the Gospel of Luke, who would be the disciple of the apostle Paul), the Epistles (fourteen attributed to Paul, one to James, two to Peter, three to John, one to Jude) and, finally the Apocalypse (Revelation), attributed to John.

Paul (Saul of Tarsus)

First Century A.D.

Roman Catholic Church

380 A.D.

Based in the Vatican, it predominates in general in central and southern Europe, Ireland and South America.

Orthodox Church

1054 A.D.

The Orthodox Church includes those of Albania, Bulgaria, Georgia, Greece, Romania, Russia, Serbia and Sinai.

Christian Protestantism

XVI century A.D.

It predominates in the north of Europe, England, Scotland, and North America. Christian Protestantism has four great branches: Baptist, Lutheran, Calvinist, and Anglican that, in turn are subdivided in groups that add, to this day, more than nine hundred just in the United States.